HIS OWN BIOGRAPHY.

Bill Nye, Writes a Sketch of His Career, Modestly Yet Truthfully.

According to a statement made by Bill Nye, who writes funny pieces for the newspapers, more or less interest has been manifested by the public in the details of his life. Apprehensive that some biography might be constructed which would distort the truth of his history, Mr. Nye has written the following sketch, which is as follows:

"Edgar Wilson Nye was born in Maine in 1850, August 25, but at two years of age he took his parents by the hand, and telling them that Piscataqua county was no place for them, he boldly struck out for St. Croix county, Wisconsin, where the hardy young pioneer found a home for his parents. The first year he drove the Indians out of the St. Croix valley and suggested to the Northwestern railroad that it would be a good idea to build a line from his parents' company could get a grant which would pay them two or three times the cost of construction. The following year he was elected sheriff of the county, and cleared a wolf scalp. He also cleared twenty-seven acres of land and raised some watermelons. In 1854 he established a law and endowed a district school in Pleasant town. It was at this time that he began to turn his attention to the abolition of slavery. He personally rode in a made trip to the press, signed 'Veritas,' in which he advocated the war of 1860, or as soon as the government could get round to it.

"He then went to St. Paul as soon as he began the study of law. He did not advance very rapidly in this profession, failing to make money in his examinations and giving bonds for his appearance at the next term of court. He was, however, a close student of political economy, and studied the personal conduct of the president. He found that he could easily live on ten cents a day and his relatives.

Too Thoroughly Settled.

"Mr. Nye now began to look about him for a new country to build up and foster, and as Wisconsin had grown to be so thickly settled in the northwestern part of the state that neighbors were frequently found to be neighbors with regard to the law, he went from all restraint and took emigrant train for Cheyenne, Wyoming. Here he engaged room at the Inter-Ocean Hotel, and began to look about him for a position in a bank. He was not successful in this endeavor, and turned to journalism. He did not succeed in getting a job for some time, but finally hired a secretary, a clerk and a number of boys. He was a Boomerang. The salary was small, but his latitude great, and he was permitted to write anything that he thought would interest the people, whether it was news or not.

"By and by he had won every heart by his gentle, patient poverty and his delightful personality with regard to facts. With poetic imagination and an order on a restaurant which advertised in the paper, he secured a room for the living day.

"Whether school kept or not.

"Thus he rose to justice of the peace and finally to an income, which is considered very large for everybody but the bossor.

His Home Life.

"He is the father of several very beautiful children, his first wife broke home, living. She is a Chicago girl and loves her husband far more than he deserves. He is pleasant to the outside world, but a perfect brute in his home. He early learned that in order to win the love of his wife he should be erratic and kick the stove over and around the room and behave like a home. He therefore asserts himself in this way, and the family love and respect him, being awed by his greatness and gentle barbarism.

"He eats plain food with both hands, conversing all the time pleasantly with any family who may be visiting at the house. If the children are noisy he will kick them from beneath the table till they roar with pain, as he chats on with the guests with a placid and happy behavior. He is a man of this which please and delight those who visit him to that degree that they almost forgot that they have had hardly anything to eat.

"In conclusion, Mr. Nye is in every respect a lovely character. He feared that his family would be disturbed by the news of this biographical sketch, so he has written it himself."

THE TRIP OF THE TEXAS.

No Attempt Made to Speed Her During the Run Up the Coast.

The new U. S. S. Texas arrived off Tompkinsville at 5.45 last evening, and dropped anchor at 8.15. She came directly from Norfolk, where she was built by the navy yard. With her was the maximum speed, which went through off the cape to adjust her compasses, she has had no work. Her initial trip was commenced Tuesday afternoon for Sandy Hook. No attempt was made to speed her during the trip up the coast. Ten days and a hour was the maximum speed. The greater part of the trip was made at a fraction over nine knots. The officers received a pilot's trip, without any delay. The ship behaved well in the water and gave promise of being up to service requirements.

The ship will lie off Tompkinsville until this afternoon, when she will run to the navy yard and put into dry dock. There her bottom will be scraped and put into condition for the trip to Boston to await her trip over the government course. She draws 23 feet. She carried a crew of 365 men. The ship was at anchor a great many put out in boats to get a good look at her.

A Murderous Ohio Sheriff.

Lee Martin, a farmer near Weston, Ohio, yesterday tried to strangle a small boy to death. His screams brought the assistance of Frank Burkhardt, who was hunting in the woods close by. Burkhardt swore out a warrant for Martin's arrest, and last night Officer Sweeny and Marshal Shultz went to the scene. When they reached the home of Martin a terrible struggle occurred in which the boy was killed. Officer Sweeny was within a few minutes. Officer Sweeny was also shot, but not fatally. Martin was lodged in jail in Tiffin.
